WHAT IF ALIENS

What if aliens were in love with us?

Alienarium 5 is a speculative environment that invites us to imagine possible encounters with extraterrestrials. The exhibition is a culmination of Dominique Gonzalez-Foerster's decades-long interest in science fiction, and her continued research into deep space and alien life.

Gonzalez-Foerster is an experimental artist. Engaging with the exhibition as a medium, her spatial inventions and investigations probe the notion of display, as well as how an image or scene is experienced. Drawing on a wide range of references from music, literature, film, architecture and pop culture, the artist creates densely layered environments that transport viewers into alternative narrative, temporal and psychological dimensions.

Compelled by historically experimental modes of presentation such as the panorama, Gonzalez-Foerster creates uncanny environments that unsettle the familiar and the expected. From her 'Chambres', an early series of highly-stylised fictional or personal interior spaces defined by a certain colour and mood, to her 'Apparitions' – ongoing live and holographic conjurings of fictional and non-fictional characters – Gonzalez-Foerster shapeshifts between diverse media. The artist's distinctive form of speculative visual fiction connects feeling and thought to that which we can see, smell, hear and touch, in an exploratory process of world-building.

WERE IN LOVE WITH US?

For Alienarium 5, Gonzalez-Foerster has collaborated with Paul B. Preciado (writer and philosopher), Martial Galfione (architect), Julien Perez (musician), Barnabé Fillion (parfumeur), Mélanie Gerbeaux (hair and makeup artist) and Ivan Murit (artist and designer) to transform the Serpentine into a spectacular and otherworldly vision. A multi-user VR piece contemplates new forms of connection through alien embodiment, while an immersive 360-degree collage titled Metapanorama uses outer space as a framework to bring humans, nonhumans and extraterrestrials together. With live apparitions appearing at various points during the exhibition, Alienarium 5 blurs the lines between past and present, and between what is real and imagined.

Connecting to Serpentine's historical role as a tea house and site of rendezvous – as well as to past exhibitions by spiritualist artists Emma Kunz (1892–1963) and Hilma af Klint (1862–1944) – Alienarium 5 serves as a meeting point for friends from the past, the present and a time not yet named. Welcoming visitors into a world of expanded possibility the exhibition is, in the artist's words, 'a mutant place contributing to the invention of new technologies of consciousness. It is an anti-War of the Worlds vision.'

Alienarium 5 is a proposal for freedom and interspecies connection. It is an experimental place in which to discover new forms of love and to encounter possible visitors from outer space.

Following on from previous projects such as Moment Ginza at the Centre National d'Art Contemporain de Grenoble (France, 1998) and Splendide Hotel at the Palacio de Cristal, Reina Sofía (Madrid, 2015), Alienarium 5 (Neon) continues Gonzalez-Foerster's practice of turning exhibition titles into neon signage. The title of this exhibition references Kurt Vonnegut's (1922–2007) anti-war science-fiction novel, Slaughterhouse-Five (1969).

PLANET CARPET

Dominique Gonzalez-Foerster,
Planet Carpet (Uranus), 2022. Printed carpet.
Generative pattern: Ivan Murit

Planet Carpet (Uranus) is the ground upon which you walk. Based on a picture of the planet Uranus rendered in artificial colours, the work is site-specific and connects the various environments that make up Alienarium 5. Planet Carpet (Uranus) relates in pattern and tone to the Metapanorama and initiates an interconnected mode of being. Flow with Planet Carpet (Uranus). Let it move you and take you on a journey.

LA PLANÈTE CLOSE

Partition and small opening, artificial hair, scent
Courtesy of the artist and Galerie Chantal Crousel, Paris

It's not easy to find the closed planet in the universe. Sometimes it's at the edge of our galaxy or well beyond the milky way... DGF

A giant head with sprawling hair and a mysterious smell sits hidden somewhere within Alienarium 5, waiting to be discovered. Inspired by Marcel Duchamp's (1887–1968) late work Étant donnés (1946–66) – a three-dimensional tableau visible only through a pair of peep-holes – Gonzalez-Foerster has concealed La planète close (The closed planet) in its own chambre (room). One of a cycle of three 'visions' made by Gonzalez-Foerster in 2021, La planète close is a nocturnal work that appears between sleep and dreams. The concealed mode of display incites desire, offering just a seductive glimpse and only the possibility of approach.

ALIENFLOWERS HOLORIUM

Dominique Gonzalez-Foerster and Barnabé Fillion
(Arpa Studios), Alienflowers (holorium), 2022.
Scent. Produced in collaboration with Mane

Alienflowers (holorium) are invisible and can be found growing in different parts of Alienarium 5, but mainly in the holorium and next to La chambre humaine (bed). Deriving nourishment from interactions with other species, the fragrant Alienflowers (holorium) also receive nutrients from the sunlight that streams through the oculus. Developed together with Barnabé Fillion, Alienflowers (holorium) blossom through associative scent engagements.

360-degree collage and sound environment.

Soundscape: Julien Perez. Generative pattern: Ivan Murit

This giant Metapanorama collage wouldn't exist without the presence of hundreds of human and non-human protagonists and their photographers, and an endless number of artworks, films and books. I'm immensely grateful to all!

DGF

PANORAMA

Metapanorama is a 360-degree assembly of beings – human and non-human – places, plants and artworks. Floating around the Earth they are gathered somewhere in outer space. On a satellite or a meteorite, perhaps? Or some minor planet?

Within this dimension non-living figures such as artist Georgia O’Keeffe (1887–1986) and choreographer and dancer Loie Fuller (1862–1928) commune with living artists like Precious Okoyomon and Arca. In this realm, fictional and non-fictional characters unite as a band of outsiders against a backdrop where works by Maria Martins (1894–1973), Gustav Metzger (1926–2017) and Odilon Redon (1840–1916) come to life.

Building upon Volcanic Excursion (A Vision) – Gonzalez-Foerster’s first 360-degree panorama based on a night-time vision and made for her solo exhibition at Secession (Vienna, 2019) – Metapanorama considers the possibilities of connection in outer space. With an immersive soundscape made in collaboration with musician Julien Perez, Metapanorama projects visitors into the cosmos.

LA CHAMBRE HUMAINE

Dominique Gonzalez-Foerster, La chambre humaine (bed), 2021. Bed and velvet cover

Courtesy of the artist and Galerie Chantal Crousel

La chambre humaine (bed) (The human room) exists in the space of sleep and dreams: a vital place for rumination and artistic epiphany. Inviting visitors to lie down and rest, the bed is where fertile concerns, attachments and apparitions are formed. Another one of Gonzalez-Foerster's cycle of three 'visions', La chambre humaine (bed) gains a planetary dimension when transplanted into this alien dream. Surrounded by invisible Alienflowers, it carries visitors into the realm of fantasy.

ALIENARIUM

Dominique Gonzalez-Foerster, Alienarium, 2022.
Multi-user VR, 10 mins. Soundscape: Julien Perez

Alienarium is a multi-user VR experience that initiates an embodied consideration of extraterrestrial life. Produced by VIVE Arts and developed by Lucid Realities, Alienarium follows on from Endodrome, Gonzalez-Foerster's VR piece presented at the Venice Biennale (2019).

Visitors are invited to explore in and through one of five distinct extraterrestrial bodies, transporting them out of their own human experience. Encounters with other alien beings expand understandings of connection, asking how we might relate to one another when untethered from our physical forms.

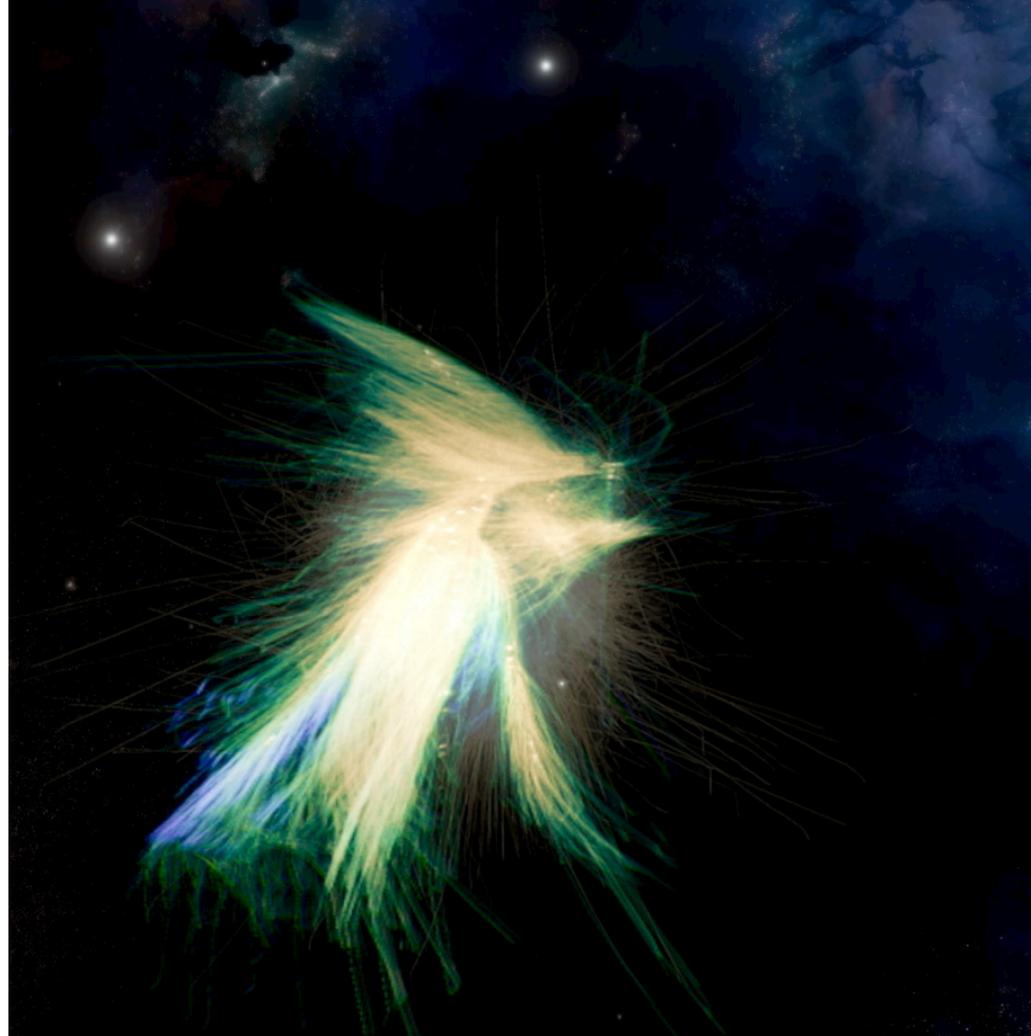

HOLORAMA 5

Dominique Gonzalez-Foerster, Holorama 5 (LoieFullerforever), 2022.
14:30 mins. Music: Julien Perez/Exotourisme

In a galactic cabaret on the outskirts of the galaxy, extraterrestrials sing and dance flamenco, powered by a soundtrack by Exotourisme.

Viewable to all creatures from the park outside Serpentine, Holorama 5 (LoieFullerforever) employs diverse media and the notion of performativity to create an alien apparition. Part of Gonzalez-Foerster's ongoing series of 'Apparitions' – fictional and non-fictional characters conjured by the artist after extensive research and study – Holorama 5 (LoieFullerforever) explores the idea of alien life as it intersects with artistic creation.

Originally conceived as live, singular occurrences, Gonzalez-Foerster's 'Apparitions' of characters such as novelist and poet Emily Brontë (1818–1848), director Werner Herzog's daydreaming protagonist Fitzcarraldo and opera singer Maria Callas (1923–1977), focus on moments of intense artistic creation. Later developed into durational holographic illusions, the 'Apparitions' have appeared in projects including Marienbad électrique at Palais Garnier (Paris, 2019) and The Infinite Mix at 180 The Strand, organised by Hayward Gallery (London, 2016).

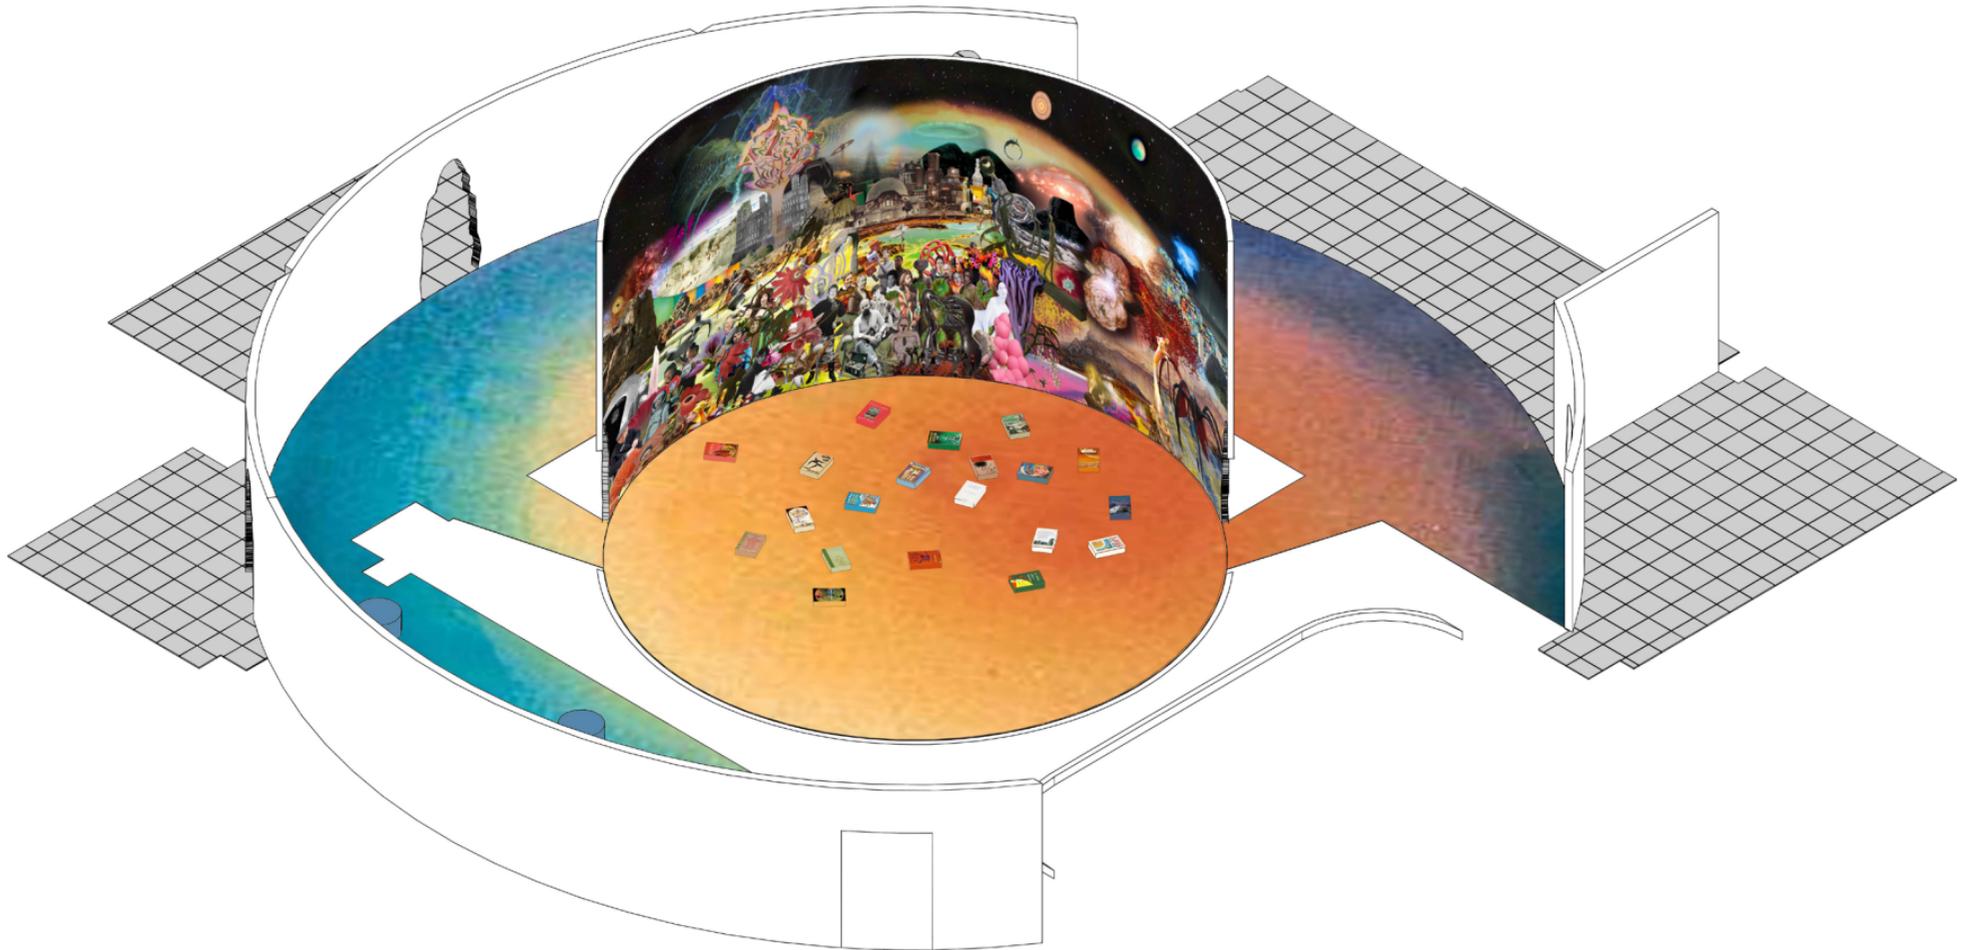

IN REMEMBRANCE OF THE COMING ALIEN

Dominique Gonzalez-Foerster and Paul B. Preciado, In remembrance of the coming alien (Alienor), 2022. Painted steel statue

Alienor is a statue made in remembrance of the coming alien. Situated in the park outside the Serpentine, Alienor resonates with other statues in Kensington Gardens and Hyde Park, including The Arch (1979–1980) by Henry Moore (1898–1986), Peter Pan (1912) by Sir George Frampton (1860–1928) and Serenity (2009) by Simon Gudgeon. Developed in collaboration with writer and philosopher Paul B. Preciado, Alienor forms part of an open and continued conversation about extraterrestrials.

The work is a queer and critical version of architect Le Corbusier's (1887–1965) anthropomorphic scale of proportions, The Modulor (1946) – and a nod to the historical figure of Eleanor of Aquitaine (Alienor d'Aquitaine) who reigned as the queen of France from 1137 to 1152 and the queen of England from 1154 to 1189. Alienor is a portal, a site of transmission and an invitation to engage across time and space.

DGF

Dominique Gonzalez-Foerster (b. in 1965 in Strasbourg, France) metabolises cinematographic, literary, architectural, musical and pop references to create spaces that investigate the implicit neutrality of artistic practice and display.

Gonzalez-Foerster's work consists of short films, concerts, exhibitions and activations to explore the essences of objects and their context. The artist's multifaceted oeuvre ranges from collected fragments of modernist buildings in Brazil to an immersive light and sound environment speculating on climate catastrophe and the imagination of future life forms.

The artist builds multifaceted worlds that oscillate between finite and infinite, the empirical and the dramaturgical. Elliptical texts, carefully drafted or selected by the artist, often support the understanding of these abstract environments, fluctuating between fiction and non-fiction whilst rooting themselves in the complexity of memory.

Beginning with her participation in the 1992 Exhibit A: Eight Artists from Europe and America and in Serpentine's Poetry Marathon in 2009, Gonzalez-Foerster has worked closely with Serpentine for many years. In this time, she has appeared together with writer Enrique Vila-Matas for Park Nights (2010), was involved in the Garden Marathon (2011), Memory Marathon (2012), Transformation Marathon (2015), GUEST, GHOST HOST: MACHINE Marathon (2017), and has done a live concert and EP Release of Exotourisme (2018) for which she also collaborated with musician Julien Perez.

Gonzalez-Foerster is the recipient of the 2002 Marcel Duchamp Award and has been exhibited worldwide, including at the Venice Biennale (Italy, 1990, 1993, 1999, 2003, 2019); Documenta 11, (Kassel, Germany, 2002); the Dia Art Foundation, (New York, USA, 2009); the LUMA Foundation (Arles, France, 2012); Manifesta 10 (Saint Petersburg, Russia, 2014); Museo Nacional Centro de Arte Reina Sofía (Madrid, 2014); Centre Pompidou (Paris, 2015); and Secession (Vienna, 2019). The artist was commissioned for the Turbine Hall at Tate Modern, London in 2008–2009.

Press Release, Monday 14 March 2022

DOMINIQUE GONZALEZ-FOERSTER, ALIENARIUM 5

GONZALEZ-FOERSTER OPENS UP A SPACE FOR ENCOUNTER, WELCOMING ALIENS INTO HYDE PARK FOR A MAJOR EXHIBITION AT SERPENTINE THIS SUMMER

What if aliens were to fall in love with us? What would it change, why and how?

Serpentine South, 14 April – 4 September 2022

Press View, Tuesday 12 April, 9am – 12pm

Detail of Metapanorama. © Dominique Gonzalez-Foerster

Serpentine is delighted to present Alienarium 5, a major exhibition by leading artist Dominique Gonzalez-Foerster. On display at Serpentine South from 14 April until 4 September 2022, this is the artist's first major institutional solo show in the UK since TH.2058 at Tate Modern's Turbine Hall in 2008.

Following a long line of projects such as Cosmodrome at Le Consortium in 2001 (Dijon, France), Chronotypes & Dioramas at Dia Art Foundation (New York, 2009), Pynchon Park at MAAT (Lisbon, 2017) and Martian Dreams Ensemble at GFZK (Leipzig, 2018), Alienarium 5 is a vision resulting from over twenty years of Gonzalez-Foerster's explorations into science-fiction and alien life, and her experiments in deep space. Conceived specifically for Serpentine, the exhibition will feature almost entirely new work engaging both the gallery's internal and external spaces. Alienarium 5 is a speculative environment in which to imagine possible encounters with extra-terrestrials.

Approaching from the park, visitors will come across a statue in remembrance of the coming alien developed by the artist together with writer and philosopher, Paul B. Preciado. Visible from outside the gallery will be Holorama, a new work created together this time with Perez, a musician and Gonzalez-Foerster's co-conspirator for Exotourisme, a musical project begun in 2018 which built upon an earlier exhibition of the same title presented at the Centre Pompidou in 2002.

The space inside the gallery will be transformed into an immersive sensory environment, incorporating visual, sonic, olfactory, tactile and live engagements that expand the audience's ability to imagine alternative forms of life and alien encounters.

In the artist's words, the exhibition can be thought of as a 'mutant place contributing to the invention of new technologies of consciousness', while also functioning as 'an anti-War of the Worlds' vision. The installation includes a 360-degree panorama, a scent collaboration with Barnabé Fillion of Arpa Studios, and a new VR piece that, following on from her critically-acclaimed Endodrome presented at the 2019 Venice Biennale, marks the artist's second VR work produced by VIVE Arts, and developed by Lucid Realities.

Inspired by Serpentine's historical position as a tea house and site of rendez-vous, as well as by past exhibitions at the gallery by Emma Kunz and Hilma af Klimt that looked at the relationship between art and spiritualism, Gonzalez-Foerster's project proposes a visionary space of connection. Serving as a meeting point for friends from the past, future and a time not yet named, Alienarium 5 encourages people to come together with love for one another and for visitors from outer space.

In the creation of this supernatural environment, the artist prompts us to ask:
What if aliens were in love with us? What would change, why and how?

Bettina Korek, CEO, and Hans Ulrich Obrist, Artistic Director, Serpentine, say:

"Dominique Gonzalez-Foerster is an artist synonymous with experimentation, whose career has spanned decades of research into sensorial and existential dimensions of human life. As such, we are honoured that she has accepted our invitation to create a bold, immersive environment that we hope will change the ways that those who experience it think, see and feel. It is with great anticipation that we look forward to inviting audiences to encounter her phenomenological 'mise-en-espace,' to quote the artist herself."

An exhibition catalogue co-published by Serpentine and Koenig is forthcoming and will comprise conversations with and contributions by artists, musicians, architects, writers and thinkers across time and space.

Forming part of the Live Programme for Alienarium 5, live apparitions will appear at various points throughout the duration of the exhibition.

Live Apparitions will take place in the gallery on:

Friday 27 May, 7-9pm

Saturday 28 May, 4-6pm

Sunday 29 May, 12-2pm

A second weekend of Live Apparitions will take place, dates to be confirmed.

Alienarium 5 is curated by Claude Adjil, Curator at Large and Hans Ulrich Obrist, Artistic Director. With Kate Wong, Assistant Curator. With special thanks to Mike Gaughan, Gallery Manager.
